• SYNOPSIS

(Short)

Director Kevin Booth navigates through the cutting edge of Cannabis research while becoming a foster parent to a child court ordered to take powerful mind altering drugs.

(Long)

After surviving brain surgery, radiation, and chemotherapy, a 2-year-old boy lay in a coma not eating for over 40 days. His parents are told to make funeral arrangements. However, his father had read about a version of an ancient drug made from cannabis. Unbeknownst to the hospital staff, the parents start secretly injecting the illegal drug into their dying son's feeding tube and soon a "miracle" takes place. When the doctors are told that cannabis was the cause of the "miracle," they have nothing to say.

Every war has unintended victims and it's the children who are losing America's longest running war. From cartel recruiting grounds of Mexico – to a child being removed from his birth mother for smoking marijuana. Is it a conspiracy? Or simple profit motives that continue to keep marijuana inside the black market.

• PRESS QUOTES

A deeply moving, personal story depicting victims of this foolish, failed War on Drugs.

Peter Stone
SSDP (Students for Sensible Drug Policy)

The most powerful and important documentary on the Drug War to date.

Law Enforcement Against Prohibition
www.leap.cc

The experience was very traumatic, sobering and anger filled, in spite of the fact that I have been at this game for too many years.

Stephen Downing
Deputy Chief, LAPD (ret.)
